[ERAS]

[E00] Dead Era: ∞ > February

The Dead Era is self explary, AO was dead, nothing going on, at times, there was some people on vanilla, which was the only server at the time.

<Contribution: NAME>

All that is known about this era is that a sily russian called Fanta wanted to make gaem.

</Contribution>

(This Era could use more infos, help by contacting Fiercy if you know anything about it)

[E01] Early Era: March > April

The Early Era was an Era mainly occupied by 3 servers:

Public Chocolate Server: (A vanilla server with more characters included in the vanilla pack) which was also the home server of a player naming himself TGART “The Great and Rapefull Trixie” Which earned him/herself a rather bad reputation. But didn’t affect the server’s popularity much. Most people having the Trixie character can still find the “gif1.gif” emote, consisting of Twilight kissing Trixie, which is what’s left of TGART nowaday.

Rising Defence Attorney: (I don’t know giggles about this server, would need help.)

Everfree Attorney: It was(?) The first MLP-Themed server on AO, and the source of the first My little Pony characters that most Pony servers use nowaday.

[E02] Fiercy and TheTrance Era: April > June

TheTrance (See [C03]) Was moderator on Vanilla from April to June/July (Time of his departure).
But this Era focuses only on the first part of his time on AO. TheTrance was at first an apparently good mod, until at some point he went tyranic, and creating dramas on Vanilla, as a pretty depressive person, he would stop fun’s vanilla so that people would cheer him up, and moderate according to his mood.

Then, the May, 15th, 2013. Fiercy shows up on Vanilla after a month long departure and see the dramas, and decides to listen to Trance’s problems, after some time, both became friends, but that friendship was unhealthy (See [C04] for more informations.) Enduring trough it, but became close. Often, Trance would have breakdowns on Vanilla, during which he would say he’d leave AO forever and other things, during which Fiercy was called numerous times to calm the game, usually using “I won’t stop you” techniques, resting on Trance’s strong dependency on him…
Often, people would protest about Trance’s moderations, the two main people who did were Omnitroid and Jontron, who would usually use strong arguments, who Trance would most often answer back with provocation. Trance and Fiercy had a setup in which Fiercy pretended to be a moderator while he was not, the setup wasn't spotted before a long time.

Soon before June, Jontron would reveal to be Kuro, and old Friend of Fiercy, who, with another friend named Meganaut, didn't like Trance's influence on Fiercy. After an argument, during which Fiercy sided with Trance, Kuro revealed some informations about Fiercy's real life, that he confided to him prior to this time. After revealing these, Kuro was directly banned by Trance.

Near the beggining of June, Trance suggested Fiercy as a moderator for vanilla. Upon Fanat's agreement, Fiercy got the moderator's pass and started moderating alongside Trance and the other moderators (Woolwine and Astranacus) However, as their relation became more and more difficult, moderation decisions grew them even more appart, as Fiercy was the total opposite from Trance when it came to moderating, Fiercy would use mod commands as last resort, would act the less possible agains't randomness and accept criticism. Moreso, Fiercy would soon be considered a way better moderator than Trance, thing that Trance wouldn't take easily. This will lead to the end of their friendship, and the Trance vs Fiercy Era.

This era was mostly marked by one fads: The Crazy Bus fad, that was born following the livestream of (???) of a crappy game called Crazy Bus, and the Bus Driver (Who was choosen by Fiercy to be Woolwine) would be Praised. Many other jokes were born from it.

During this Era, the two biggest servers (Except Vanilla) were: Woolwine's World and Ashley's Courtroom.

[E03] Fiercy vs TheTrance Era: June > July

This Era would start dirrectly after TheTrance's Era, and would last up to Trance's departure of AO.

This Era is still considered the biggest event in AO's history, and for reason. It was a month (Or more?) Long flamewar opposing two moderators, who were also close friends. TheTrance and Fiercy.

The night after Trance's and Fiercy's friendship was ended, Trance spent the night spreading his vision of the whole situation, in which Fiercy looked like a real dick, and quick enough, alot of people got to hate Fiercy for what he "did". Soon after, he decided to explain his side of the situation, in which both he and Trance had done wrong things, which got him a minority of people to start to agree with him, and soon a little more, but as Trance's accusations went on, Fiercy became angry and violent, using Trance's weaknesses he knew off, and turning people against Trance in return, this era was an open flamewar between the two, both used weaknesses of the other they knew of, but Trance's instability gave a clear advantage to Fiercy, who was more calm and composed, slowly getting followers.

And the, Cat Corporation was first created, with its original members being Alex, Fiercy and [redacted]. Cat Corporation, then, mostly worked on breaking AO to force Fanat to update it. And to bring an end to Trance's tyranny.

Soon after, Fiercy was given an hackingscript, which would allow him to spread chaos on Vanilla, upon accepting it, Fiercy created "Venecity Kalissto" as his hacker name. His motives are still unclear to him as of now. But him and [redacted] raided on vanilla numerous times, [redacted]'s "public" motives being to show how AO was abusable and to get rid of the tyranic moderator on vanilla (Trance). As Trance, and all other mods, were powerless in front of Venecity Kalissto. He and [redacted] gained popularity thanks to their unstopable raids, in which they caused extreme randomness, which people appreciated from them.

Venecity Kalissto also, at times, shown a soft side, particulary toward Panda. To which he talked about his way of seeing the world, which will lead to Panda's admiration to Fiercy. At that time, Fiercy befriended Recon Scout.

As for Fiercy's position, when he was not Venecity Kalissto, he partaked in many "investigations" to discover VK's true identity, methods and motives, in which he led others the wrong way. But his laid back attitude about all this got him suspicions from Trance and Fanat.

27 of June(?): Trance decides to leave AO. But before doing so, he publicly accuses Fiercy of being Venecity Kalissto, using weak arguments Fiercy then contradicted using fake evidences he left in his "investigations" with other AO players. He then accuses Trance of blaming him simply because Trance was mad at him, which most people agreed with, after that, Trance was never seen on AO again.

[E04] Venecity Kalissto Era: July

The Venecity Kalissto Era was a relatively short (1 or 2 weeks) Era following the departure of Trance, in which VK was still raiding Vanilla and celebrating his victory upon Trance.
At the end of this era, Fiercy publicly admitted of being Venecity Kalissto, and sent a copy of his hacking script to Fanat. The announce surprised alot of people, but at Fiercy's surprise, very few people actually hated him for it, in fact, it boosted his celebrity for a short time. And he wasn't thrown out of the moderators team.

[ESB] The Summer Break: July > August

This Era is a calm Era, in which not much happened, AO was particulary active. After Fiercy's announce, the debugging on AO mostly stopped for a while.

[E05] Panda Era: ~September

Panda, who was chosen by actual moderators at that time to be added to the team. However, soon after, Fiercy's opinion on Panda's moderation work took the wrong turn, and Fiercy went on another crusade against a vanilla moderator. Raiding vanilla, and on Panda's private server. Those raids on Panda gave Fiercy an incredibly bad reputation, and turned his famous status to an infamous status. Panda's behavious back to Fiercy was inconsistent, sometimes he'd use an emotional approach, that proved effective on most cases, and other times, he'd use a more common approach, comparing Fiercy to a bully.
This era ended in a rather good way, with both Fiercy and Panda ending on relatively good terms. Other person implicated in this Era was Drear, a friend of both Fiercy and Panda, who mostly tried to act as a neutral party.

[E06] Calm Era: October > November

This era was a relatively calm era where nothing big happens on AO, every cliques stay between them, and AO's number of servers are deplucating, with over 10 servers at most times. Some people also tried to look into AO in ways to bypass protections.

Important servers: Public Vanilla Servers, Woolwine's Worlds, The Reaper's games, Noevain's Kindergarden, The Cookie Conglomerate, Drear's server of awesomeness.

By the end of November, Fiercy left Cat Corporation, and Ashley Black joined it.

[E07] Empire Era: November > April

This era marks the beginning of masive hacking on AO. Whereas it used to only be accessible to members or Cat Corporation, a new person will come and massively crack the security of AO. Called stonedDiscord, this individual will not only make public a way to use Something that was accessible in every client, he will also provoke the Arstrotzka Meltdown on AO, resulting in the banning of dozens of individuals from the entire AO game. Thanksfully, Cat Corporation managed to save the situation. However, soon after this, the amount of Something on servers will duplicate, again and again, multiple leaks will also happen.

At [redacted] the Cat Corporation had sD join their ranks and started developping Cattorney Online, an alternative update branch for AO.

Informations of events are needed here

Soon after, Fiercy came back into Cattorney Online, and helped its developpement and release. However, the lack of assistance from Hosts, and the lack of knowledge about CAO made the release difficult. The Cat Corp team has now abandonned the project.

[E08] Reborn Era: April > Today

After a relative peace on AO due to Fanat's latest update, nerfing the low-tier Somethings to nothing, Omnitroid, the host of the reputed Cookie Conglomerate server decided to leave AO, which led to Fiercy to take a one week break. At this point, he came back into Cat Corp once again, and based on an idea first imagined by Alex, then exploited by Noevain and sD. He povided Safemod servers to some hosts of AO, which are basically un-hackable. (see definitions sections for more details) After the use of safemod first was used on Minamimoto Vanilla server (Cookie Conglomerate official successor, hosted by Noevain) Noevain joined the ranks of Cat Corperation on the proposition of Fiercy.

Need more details here again.
